JCJC Graduate Education Program Celebrates the Class of 2015

Congratulations to the Class of 2015 of the Juvenile Court Judges' Commission's Graduate Education Program at Shippensburg University! Commencement ceremonies were held at Shippensburg University's H. Ric Luhrs Performing Arts Center on Friday, May 8, 2015. Prior to the commencement exercises, the JCJC graduates were recognized with a reception, hosted at the Shippensburg University Foundation Conference Center. In attendance at the reception were several members of the JCJC, the staff of the JCJC and the CJJT&R, several University administrators, faculty of the Criminal Justice Department, as well as family and friends of the graduates.

Carrie Orndorff was named the Graduate Student of the Year. She will receive the Dr. Anthony F. Ceddia Award for Outstanding Scholarship in Juvenile Justice at the Pennsylvania Conference on Juvenile Justice on November 5, 2015.

On behalf of the Juvenile Court Judges' Commission and the faculty at Shippensburg University, we offer our congratulations on these students' outstanding achievements and wish them all the very best in their future endeavors.

Case Planning Handbook - YLS/CMJ Version Now Available

The JJSES Leadership Team is excited to announce the release of the Case Planning Handbook - YLS/CMJ Version. The Handbook is the result of a collaborative effort between the JJSES Leadership Team, the Assessment/Case Planning Committee of the Pennsylvania Council of Chief Juvenile Probation Officers and the Carey Group. It is designed to assist staff who have been trained through the Quality Case Planning Curriculum to select case plan goals and activities that align with the criminogenic needs identified by the YLC/CMJ. The structured design of the handbook provides a point of reference for juvenile probation officers as they develop case plans using activities to build skills and achieve goals that reduce a youth's risk to reoffend. The Handbook can be located on the JCJC website, and it will soon be available on the website of the Pennsylvania Council of Chief Juvenile Probation Officers.

JCJC Graduate Education Program Accepting Applications for the Class of 2018

Looking to advance in Juvenile Justice?

Applications are now being accepted for the Juvenile Court Judges' Commission-sponsored Graduate Education Program at Shippensburg University. Members of the class of 2018 will begin classes in the Summer of 2016.

The Shippensburg University program offers students a Master of Science degree in the Administration of Justice. This is a 36-credit hour program that includes courses in research methods, theory, administration, and policy analysis. Also featured is a practicum study which is conducted throughout the two-year program. The practicum study provides students the opportunity to evaluate data from their home county to address relevant research needs and topics (i.e. case planning, detention reform, YLS, diversion, and/or Disproportionate Minority Contact).

What are the benefits of the JCJC Graduate Education Program?

- Free tuition;
- Free lodging on class weekends;
- No weekday or evening classes;
- A Master's curriculum specifically tailored to working juvenile justice professionals;
- Networking with other juvenile justice professionals from across the Commonwealth;
- Opportunity to learn how to evaluate juvenile justice programs in your county.

This program is available to county juvenile probation officers – and county juvenile detention staff – who will have at least two years of post-baccalaureate experience in the juvenile justice field prior to the start of classes. Other juvenile justice professionals – such as residential placement staff and victim services providers – may also apply and be accepted into the program on a “self-pay” basis as space is available.

Additional information about the program is available on the Graduate Education pages at www.jcjc.state.pa.us. If you have any questions regarding eligibility or the application process, please contact Kelly Waltman-Spreha at 717-477-1185.

RESEARCH IN BRIEF

Part 15 in a series

Source Document: Alexander, M., L. Palombo, et al. (2013). "Coaching: The True Path to Proficiency, From an Officer's Perspective." Federal Probation 77 (2).

The body of scientific knowledge related to the field of juvenile justice is growing at an exponential rate. With this knowledge, new processes leading to improved outcomes are routinely generated. Clearly, the need to have access to, and understand scientific information is critical. Unfortunately, practitioners often do not have the time to sort through the literature. With this issue in mind, in 2006, the Colorado Division of Probation Services began to publish Research in Briefs (RIB's). These documents are intended to summarize potentially helpful research related to effective practices, as well as provide ideas for practical applications of the information. More information on RIB's can be found here: http://www.courts.state.co.us/userfiles/file/Administration/Probation/ResearchInBriefs/RIB_Summary1213.pdf

Pennsylvania's Juvenile Justice System Enhancement Strategy (JJSES) rests on two interlinked foundations: the best empirical research available in the field of juvenile justice and a set of core beliefs about how to integrate this research into practice. With this in mind, as an ongoing feature of Pennsylvania Juvenile Justice, "Research In Brief (RIBs)" will provide summaries of published research related to various aspects of the JJSES. The RIBs will convey how various scientific studies support the JJSES Statement of Purpose.

Perceptions and Benefits of Coaching

Coaching: The True Path To Proficiency, From an Officer's Perspective.

Retrieved from: https://www.courts.state.co.us/userfiles/file/Administration/Probation/ResearchInBriefs/RIB_STARR_Coaching-Apr15.pdf

The current study builds upon the coaching study presented in the April, 2015 edition of Pennsylvania Juvenile Justice (RIB # 14). Utilizing officer testimonials, survey data, skill use data, and revocation rates, the current study examines the impact of coaching with the program Staff Training Aimed at Reducing Rearrest (STARR). After being trained officers would submit audiotapes, from which they would receive coaching. Officer testimonials confirm previous survey findings that coaching was a method to ensure knowledge skill transfer. Additionally, STARR skills use increased from 14% to 59% over the course of one year.

Coaching in the probation field is an emerging concept. With an increased need for fidelity to programs as well as adherence to Risk, Need, and Responsivity (RNR) principles, coaching is one way to foster officer skill development. The current study examines officer testimonials, survey data, and other data to examine possible effects of coaching. Officers in a United States Probation Office attended one 3-day STARR training.

STARR training emphasizes the use of core correctional practices in office visits specifically to address pro-social behavior and thinking. Officers would then submit audiotapes and attend mandatory coaching sessions. Coaching encompassed personal coaching sessions as well as group coaching. After reaching proficiency, as determined by an expert trainer, the participants attended a 2-day coaching training. These officers would then coach the following waves of STARR trained officers. New coaches would receive feedback from expert trainers.

When surveyed, almost all officers (92%) agreed or strongly agreed that listening to their tapes enhanced their skills. Seventy-seven percent would listen to every contact they audio taped. Some (38%) agreed or strongly agreed the conversation was different than they remembered. Nearly half of officers (46%) reported anxiety prior to commencement of coaching. One of the more powerful officer statements was, "I can honestly say that without the individual coaching and booster (coaching) session, my use of STARR would have declined or stopped shortly after returning from my initial STARR training.” In approximately one year’s time, the percentage use of STARR in appointments increased 45% when this training/coaching model was utilized. The department cites over 70% of their officers trained are using the STARR skills in at least half of their contacts. Finally, the study reports that 12-month revocations decreased 14% in the same timeframe. The department attributes this to the implementation of RNR principles and the use of STARR.

Limitations of Information

The data from the survey contained a small sample size and may not be indicative of all attitudes and perceptions. Participants were from the United States Probation Office and may have different attitudes and perceptions than those of Pennsylvania Juvenile Probation Officers. The study included revocation reduction data, which it is not certain to what degree coaching influenced any increased positive outcomes. Finally, it is not clear if organizational structure or culture influenced any of the findings.

Practical Applications

- ✓ Identify and train in-house coaches for complex skill sets.
- ✓ When providing feedback/coaching it is important to encourage the individual to verbalize their perception of how they did. Help the person to identify their strengths as part of the process.
- ✓ Coaching staff through the implementation of new skills helps to solidify changes in practice. Supervisors should consider affirming staff who are involved in providing or receiving coaching.
- ✓ It is important to create a safe environment for coaching. Individuals may be anxious before receiving coaching. Setting expectations and explaining the process prior to the coaching event may ease some anxiety for individuals.
- ✓ Learning new skills takes time. Build time in to your schedule to practice and receive feedback.

Caveat: The information presented here is intended to summarize and inform readers of research and information relevant to probation work. It can provide a framework for carrying out the business of probation as well as suggestions for practical application of the material. While it may, in some instances, lead to further exploration and result in future decisions, it is not intended to prescribe policy and is not necessarily conclusive in its findings. Some of its limitations are described above.

JJSES Statement of Purpose

We dedicate ourselves to working in partnership to enhance the capacity of Pennsylvania’s juvenile justice system to achieve its balanced and restorative justice mission by: employing evidence-based practices, with fidelity, at every stage of the juvenile justice process; collecting and analyzing the data necessary to measure the results of these efforts; and, with this knowledge, striving to continuously improve the quality of our decisions, services and programs.

Readers are encouraged to submit ideas and suggestions related to the JJSES they would like to have addressed. Ideas and suggestions may be submitted to: Leo J. Lutz at LeLutz@pa.gov.

“PREA” - Ms. Maureen G. Raquet (Break-out session)

Maureen G. Raquet is a U.S. Department of Justice Certified PREA Auditor. She has been conducting PREA Audits for County run Juvenile Detention Centers and for Private Providers throughout the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania since obtaining her certification in 2014. She feels that her skill set is a perfect match for conducting these Audits due to her lengthy experience in Pennsylvania's Juvenile Justice System. Prior to her retirement from County government in 2013, she was the Executive Director of the Montgomery County Youth Center (2000-2013), Secure Detention Coordinator (1992-2000), Montgomery County Juvenile Probation Officer (1980-1992) and a Lower Merion Township Police Officer (1978-1980). Having run a residential program for many years, she is very familiar with the DPW 3800 regulations and this enables her to understand how the PREA process fits into Pennsylvania programs.

Maureen is a member of the PCCD Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Committee, having been appointed by Governor Rendell in 2007. She is a member of the Funding and Systems Enhancement sub-committees. She is the chairperson of the Detention workgroup.

In addition to her PREA Audits, she is a part time regional SPEP consultant through the EPIS Center at Penn State and an adjunct professor of Criminal Justice at West Chester University. Maureen holds a Bachelor of Arts from Lafayette College and a Master's in Criminal Justice/Juvenile Justice from the JCJC program at Shippensburg University. She received the JCJC Graduate Student Award in 1989 and the Montgomery County Juvenile Probation Officer of the Year Award in 1985. She was President of the Juvenile Detention Centers Association of Pa. and received their Distinguished Service Award. She also was the recipient of the Montgomery County Women's Senior Leadership Award.
