Achieving Our Balanced and Restorative Justice Mission
Through
Pennsylvania’s Juvenile Justice System Enhancement Strategy

One of the most significant reforms in the history of Pennsylvania’s Juvenile Justice System occurred in 1995, when Act 33 of Special Session No. 1 of 1995 amended the Juvenile Act to clearly define three goals for Pennsylvania’s juvenile justice system: the protection of the community; the imposition of accountability for offenses committed; and the development of competencies to enable children to become responsible and productive members of the community. Since that time, juvenile justice professionals and community members throughout Pennsylvania have been working together to implement policies, practices, and programs designed to achieve our balanced and restorative justice mission.

Over the past decade, a number of juvenile probation departments throughout Pennsylvania implemented a variety of “evidence-based practices” – which simply means applying research about “what works” to what we do on a daily basis with youth and families. However, the efforts to implement evidence-based practices were loosely supported and uncoordinated from a statewide perspective, and it was recognized that evidence-based practices would advance more quickly and comprehensively if juvenile probation departments received support at the state level.

In 2010, Juvenile Court Judges’ Commission (JCJC) staff and the Executive Committee of the Pennsylvania Council of Chief Juvenile Probation Officers decided to embark upon a new Juvenile Justice System Enhancement Strategy (JJSES), designed to support the implementation of “evidence-based practices” to help us achieve our balanced and restorative justice mission. The first concrete step taken was to create the following Statement of Purpose, designed to reflect the underlying goals of our system and of the JJSES initiative:

JJSES Statement of Purpose

_We dedicate ourselves to working in partnership to enhance the capacity of Pennsylvania’s juvenile justice system to achieve its balanced and restorative justice mission by:_

- Employing evidence-based practices with fidelity at every stage of the juvenile justice process;
- Collecting and analyzing the data necessary to measure the results of these efforts; and, with this knowledge,
- Striving to continuously improve the quality of our decisions, services and programs.

A JJSES Leadership Team was developed consisting of JCJC staff, chief juvenile probation officers and Pennsylvania Commission on Crime and Delinquency (PCCD) staff. In 2011, a JJSES Framework was created to serve as a blueprint for implementing evidence-based practices throughout Pennsylvania’s juvenile justice system, and a JJSES monograph was written to describe each element of the JJSES Framework for juvenile justice professionals in Pennsylvania.
In May 2012, Governor Corbett signed Act 42 of 2012 into law, which amended the enabling legislation of the JCJC to require that: the agency collect and analyze data to identify trends and to determine the effectiveness of programs and practices to ensure the reasonable and efficient administration of the juvenile court system; make recommendations concerning evidence-based programs and practices to judges, the Administrative Office of the Pennsylvania Courts, and other appropriate entities; and post related information on the Commission’s publicly accessible internet website. Also, in 2012, six regional JJSES planning sessions for county teams were held throughout the state designed to share information about, and serve as a springboard for, local JJSES implementation. Over 600 people, representing all sixty-seven counties, participated in one of the sessions.

The JCJC’s Juvenile Probation Services appropriation was increased by $2.5 million in FY 2013-2014, in conjunction with Governor Corbett’s Juvenile Justice Reinvestment Initiative (JJRI), to identify and target evidence-based interventions, assess risk to reoffend, and analyze and collect offender-specific case plan data. The members of the Juvenile Court Judges’ Commission voted unanimously at their May 2013 meeting to require that, as a condition of participation in the JCJC’s Juvenile Probation Services Grant Program, all counties must submit JJSES Implementation Plans, for approval by JCJC staff, which address the following:

- Implementation of the Youth Level of Service (YLS) risk/need assessment instrument;
- Development of recommendations to the Court based upon the YLS results, including the identified risks and needs of each juvenile; and
- Development of standardized case plans based upon the YLS results, which target services to meet the identified risks and needs of each juvenile.
